With questions on health insurance related matters please, turn to our Student Center: studentcenter@ceu.edu

3. ACADEMIC MATTERS

The 50% Rule

Erasmus students are required to take 50% of their courses in the host department while they can take the rest of the courses from other departments. The 50% is understood as general workload reflected in the number of ECTS credits rather than the number of individual courses.

Please, be informed that incoming PhD students are required to have a supervisor at CEU, which needs to be arranged prior to arrival. The relevant CEU Department should be contacted for help on this.

3.1 ORIENTATION PROGRAMS

In order to introduce you to life at CEU and to help you to settle in, the University runs a series of Pre-session orientation programs designed to tell you about life at CEU.

The Orientation Program is organized by the Student Center for newly arrived students. It is specifically designed to help them with their initial adjustment to living in Vienna and studying at CEU. The program covers a range of events and activities that provide, first, practical information about your studies at CEU and, second, a great opportunity to make new friends and to familiarize yourself with the university and Vienna.

The Pre-session Orientation guides you through the available courses at your choice of host department. Your course registration will be arranged during this time.

Please contact the Student Center and your Departmental coordinator for more information on arrival.

3.2 KNOWLEDGE OF ENGLISH

Teaching at CEU is conducted exclusively in English and classes are discussion-based. Erasmus students are fully integrated with CEU's degree-seeking students who have demonstrated in their applications proficiency of English. For this reason, we expect from Erasmus applicants a command of the English language comparable to that of our degree students (generally on Level C in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).

We accept the following types of certificates of language proficiency from Erasmus applicants:

- Standardized English language test scores such as TOEFL, IELTS, Cambridge etc.
- Certificate issued by the home institution with an explanation of the level of the certificate against the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages

More information on the minimal language requirement is available at:

<https://www.ceu.edu/admissions/how-to-apply/checklist#step-5>

3.3 GRADING AND ECTS-European Credit Transfer System

A. Examinations and Grading

1. Course syllabus. Students are entitled to know at the beginning of each semester what will be expected of them in any particular course. Therefore, a detailed course syllabus is provided by the departments and programs for each course. <https://courses.ceu.edu/>

2. Examination schedules. Ordinarily, examinations will be administered within each department and program for the purpose of assessing individual performance of the students and their mastery of course material. University policy on such examinations is as follows:

Learning in each course taught in CEU degree programs is assessed and graded by means of examinations and/or graded course work. The form (e.g. open book, closed book, take-home, restricted examination) and the criteria of assessment should be specified in the course syllabi which should be made available to students at time of their registration for the course at the latest.

The dates of examinations and the deadlines for assessed coursework due within a given academic term should be specified by the head of department and communicated to students not later than two weeks after the start of the relevant academic term. Examinations and assignment deadlines should be scheduled in such a manner that students have reasonable time for preparation and recuperation allowing them to demonstrate their knowledge of course materials.

The content of graded examinations is determined by the course instructor and is subject to approval by the head of department or a program committee, as appropriate. The following forms of examination are used at CEU:

- In closed book examinations students are required to prepare their answers in a supervised classroom and are not allowed to consult external materials except those explicitly specified by the instructor prior to the exam;
- In open book examinations students are required to prepare their answers in a supervised classroom and are allowed to consult any materials of their choice;
- In take-home examinations students do not need to be present in a classroom during the time of preparing their answers.
- In restricted examinations, students may not keep or disseminate examination questions after the end of examination.

3. Anti-plagiarism software. CEU Faculty may use anti-plagiarism software to check the originality and authenticity of theses, dissertations, exam papers and other written assignments. Students acknowledge this in the process of their enrolment and matriculation, as well as the fact that their work will be stored in the anti-plagiarism software database.

The overall grade for the course is based on requirements specified in the course syllabi. The students are entitled to receive reasonable and timely feedback on their performance in course work and exams. The type of, and deadlines for feedback for different forms of performance are specified in the Program Specifications.

Students who fail to achieve the minimum pass grade during an examination or for course work are allowed one retake in case of mandatory exams or courses. In case of electives, the Program Specifications regulate the possibility of a retake. The form of retakes should be the same as, or similar to, the form of the original examination/assessment.

If more than one examination or assignment is failed during a given academic course, granting a retake is at the discretion of the head of department. In granting a retake, the size and the significance of the failed courses as well as the severity and the circumstances of the failure should be taken into account.

A satisfactory retake means the demonstration of a passing performance. The maximum grade allocated in a retake assessment is "RP" (2.33 grade points).

Only one retake is allowed for any given course. A retake failure means failing the course.

4. Exemption. Unforeseen personal circumstances (such as a medical or family emergency or an accident) may prevent a student from fulfilling course or program requirements.

In such cases, the student should inform the head of department at the earliest opportunity as soon as the adverse circumstances become known. The student should provide an explanation of the personal circumstance, enclose relevant evidence (e.g. medical or police report), and explain how his or her academic activities and performance are affected by these circumstances.

The head of department shall make a reasoned decision on mitigation (e.g. rescheduling examination or assignment deadline, waving the penalty for late submission, substituting course requirements etc.) through a fair process which respects the student's privacy and the academic integrity of the program.

5. Retention of examinations. The Departments and Schools should keep examinations and other submitted coursework on file for the minimum of one year. During this period, students have a right to inspect their own examinations and other submitted coursework.
