OUTGOING STUDENT TESTIMONIALS

Returning from Erasmus in Rome La Sapienza allowed me to appreciate cultural distinctions between Italy and Türkiye, explore Byzantine roots, and engage with diverse international students. Delving into neuropsychology sparked a keen interest and offered an alternative career path. Living alone in a cosmopolitan European city improved my Italian proficiency and provided a memorable experience of integration. The architecture, cultural richness, and exposure to the Mediterranean mindset left an indelible mark. Unforgettable moments included holidays, pride parades, and the Women's day march. Erasmus, a lifetime experience, is a must for those seeking a new perspective in social and academic life. Even now, I occasionally feel mentally transported back to that transformative period.

Erasmus's wisdom, "Life is what happens to us while we are busy making plans," became evident as I unexpectedly found myself in Reims, France, instead of Russia due to a global exchange program. Adapting to this change, I discovered the liberating atmosphere at Sciences Po, where students engage in open debates, fostering individual expression. Peer mentorships boosted my confidence and social skills, fostering friendships with students worldwide. My time in France included art appreciation at the Louvre, enchanted moments with the Eiffel Tower, and memorable experiences like hot chocolate at Angèle. This period in my life, filled with European tours and cultural exploration, remains special and cherished.

Facing challenges independently boosted my confidence and self-esteem. Beyond the excitement of traveling, making international friends, and immersing in different cultures, Erasmus offered valuable opportunities for personal growth. Embracing every opportunity presented by Erasmus allows you to shape the experience as you wish.
